At present, our company is developing methodological tools and concretizes objectives for the prospective research projects in the field of social and political behavior and attitudes in countries with transition economies, emerging economies in the region of Eurasian continent (namely, all 32 countries of Central, Southern and Eastern Europe, Central Asia and Middle East).

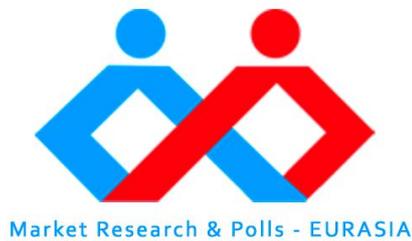

For the research tools perfection (refinement subject or a list of interesting questions) and improving of this projects we are looking for partners among the Western European and American experts and sociological organizations.

We hope to create a joint productive-scientific cluster for the long-term trust-based cooperation. We are confident such research and production clusters are more viable and competitive than any single companies in the international market.

We will be happy if you will find time and interest to study our initiatives. In order to develop these and other similar interesting ideas, we need a working dialogue and a special format for more dense cooperation on various functional levels between the specialized working groups of our organizations.
